

Patients celebrate New Year's Eve

loading
Close [x]

New Year's Eve marked at Trauma Centre

Carolina D'Souza, Staff Reporter

Published: 18:34 December 31, 2012

Dubai: More than 60 patients in Rashid Hospital's Trauma Centre were made to feel special on New Year's Eve through personal visits and gifts.

For those who aren't fortunate to be healthy enough to indulge in year-end festivities, the Spread a Smile event, organised by Oxygen Management Consultant, was considered a blessing.

Speaking to Gulf News, the patients said they were touched by the gesture.

Emirati Saeed Abdullah, a security manager, was injured in a road accident. He told Gulf News that he usually celebrates New Year's Eve with friends and family over dinner and late night coffee. "I've been here since December 17. My kids visit me regularly, but I told them not to come by today," he said. Another patient's brother in law, Indian expatriate Manoj, said that the prognosis is Muneer Samnani, managing director, told Gulf News that the idea of the initiative is to touch lives that have been negatively affected. "Meeting patients is a way to reach out to them. In turn we realise how fortunate we are," he said.